Tendency of Cream to Rise to Top Makes Dairymen Unintentionally Sell Skimmed Milk.

Dairymen, grocers and restaurant keepers who sell milk at retail often violate the laws regulating the sale of milk by unintentionally selling skimmed milk, according to experts of the United States department of agriculture. A builetin sent out by the department gives the following advice on the handling of milk in bulk:

ollowing advice on the handling of milk is bulk:

If the milk is not thoroughly mixed before pouring from a large container into a small can, pitcher or other receptacle, most of the cream, which naturally rises to the top, will be poured into the first receptacles which are filled. The last milk poured out is actually skimmed milk, for it contains little or no cream. The same trouble occurs when milk is drawn from a faucet, except that in this case the process is reversed, as the skimmed milk is drawn from the bottom of the can first and the cream layer remains until the last.

This practice of not mixing the milk has caused milk venders to be brought into court, although the violation of the law may have been unintentional in many cases.

The department of agriculture recommends that milk be retailed in bottles. Whenever it is necessary to sell bulk milk, venders are advised to mix their milk thoroughly each time before pouring from a large container into a small one, if they wish to avoid unlatentional skimming. This can best be done by stirring the milk with a long-handled dipper. Shaking the can is not sufficient.

GREAT WHITE WAY FOR SECOND SOUTH

City Attorney Instructed to Draw Up Ordinance for Creation of Special Lighting District.

Creation of special lighting improvement districts, as provided for by the last legislature, was decided upon by the city commission vesterday and the city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance creating the first district, on Second South street from Second East street to West Temple street.

This action was taken on the petition of G. S. Holmes and others. Half a dozen other petitions for the creation of similar lighting districts have been before the commission for several months, but have never been acted upon. However, with the latest petition as a precedent, these will be given early consideration.

Under the new law the city may create a lighting district. Uniform lights, placed at regular intervals on both sides of the street, can be installed and the cost of the improvement assessed to the property owners by special tax.

STILL ANOTHER ECHO OF HUNT FOR LOPEZ

Sheriff Andrew Smith, Jr., and the county attorney. I E. Willey attended the conference. After discussing the itemized claims for two hours, the commissioners passed a number of them and continued the others for further consideration and investigation. The company is asking for a total of about $3200 reimbursement.
